Senator Smith Encourages New York City Youth To Enroll In Lifeguard Training Course

MALCOLM A. SMITH January 29, 2006

State Senator Malcolm Smith (D-Queens) today announced that the New York City Parks and Recreation lifeguard recruitment has begun for their 2006 summer season.

"Working as a lifeguard is a wonderful opportunity for young people who are interested in public safety. Having well trained lifeguards is vital for New York's Parks and Recreation. There's no question that with 52 outdoor pools and 14 miles of beaches, lifeguards are a valuable component of their summer season," said Senator Smith.

The Queens lawmaker noted that the Parks department is looking for mature and dependable candidates for this free training course. All eligible candidates must be 16 years of age or older, have eyesight no worse than 20/30 in one eye and 20/40 in the other, and be able to swim 50 yards in 35 seconds.

"This type of training course is especially beneficial to teens because it is a chance to learn discipline while simultaneously learning a valuable skill. Lifeguarding can be both challenging and demanding, but it is also rewarding and important for community safety. I hope that all eligible candidates will consider trying out for this program," said Senator Smith.
