Compilation of Information About Government and Community Services, Educational and Cultural Programs

New York, NY—State Senator Daniel Squadron greeted parents and students on the first day of school with a Parent Resource Guide, a compilation of accessible and important resources available to families throughout the community. The Parent Resource Guide includes information regarding educational resources, health care resources, government agencies, and cultural and recreational programs. Members of Senator Squadron’s office also distributed the Parent Resource Guide at schools throughout his district. For a copy of the
