Marking the historic passage of the marriage equality law, Senator Suzi Oppenheimer (D-Mamaroneck) was honored to attend the recent wedding of Chris Fraley and Victor Self. Surrounded by family and friends, Fraley and Self exchanged vows on Sunday afternoon in Rye, becoming one of the first couples in Westchester County to marry under the new law.

“I am delighted that Victor and Chris invited me to share in this joyous occasion, and I’m so proud to have played a part in helping to make this day possible, said the Senator, who has long supported marriage equality for all New Yorkers. “I wish them a lifetime of
