Thousands of Pounds Collected at Free Recycling Event in Forest Park, Woodhaven

Queens, NY, April 17, 2012 – NYS Senator Joseph P. Addabbo, Jr. and NYS Assemblyman Mike Miller announced that tons of electronics, paper and books, clothing and textiles, carpeting and household goods were collected during their 5th Recycling Collection Day held in their district on Sunday, April 15, in Forest Park's bandshell parking lot in Woodhaven. Hundreds of participants showed up, dropping off old, unwanted electronics, TVs/CRTs, VCRs, at e-Green Management trucks, while paper and books were dropped off with the SecureShred crew. Also dropped off for recycling were hundreds of bags of wearable clothing, coats, shoes, handbags, linens at the Salvation Army truck, plus residential carpeting at the Long Island Carpet Recycling truck. Residents also dropped off old eyeglasses at Ozone Park CSA's table.

According to Assemblyman Mike Miller, "It was so gratifying to spend the hours seeing all the drivers pull into the lot with loaded cars ready for dropping off their computers, TVs, clothing, carpeting and more. It was something for Queens to be proud of...these electronics otherwise would be in our landfills, creating the worst health results for all."

Adds Addabbo, "I'm grateful to have been given the opportunity to host another such event for my residents so that they may conveniently and properly dispose of their unwanted items, after cleaning out their closets, bookcases and spare rooms every spring and fall," Addabbo said.

The Senator and his staff were delighted with the response to the recycling event. "We had a steady stream of people coming through all day. Based on the success of this event, I expect to work with the Senator on another recycling event in September," noted Peter DeLucia, Director of Special Events on the Senator's staff.
