Senator Golden to Host Cardiac Health and Stroke Prevention Symposium

MARTIN J. GOLDEN October 15, 2012

Brooklyn – State Senator Mary Golden will host a Cardiac Health and Stroke Prevention Symposium, in conjunction with Maimonides Medical Center, on Monday, October 22, 2012, at 6:00 p.m. at SS Simon and Jude Parish Elementary School Auditorium located at 294 Avenue T (across from the Church).

Speakers include Dr. Razvan Buciuc, Chief of Endovascular Surgical Neuroradiology, Dr. Robert Rhee, Chief of Vascular and Endovascular Surgery, Dr. Greg Ribakove, Chief of Cardiothoracic Surgery, and Dr. Steven Rudolph, Director of Stroke Medicine.

Senator Marty Golden stated, "It is so important that we understand the best ways to take care of ourselves and our families. That is why I am proud to be hosting this important forum in conjunction with some leading medical doctors from Maimonides Medical Center, based on cardiac health and stroke prevention. I am sure that all who attend the event will find it worthwhile."

Dinner will be served free gifts for all attendees. Reservations are required and can be made by calling (718) 283-8832.
