Senate passes on time budget that delivers tax relief for families and small businesses, phases out and eliminates 18-a Energy Tax Surcharge, makes strategic investments in job creation, local schools and roads, Senator Marchione secures funding for continuation and expansion of program helping veterans, and in support of local tourism and regional economic development

Senator Kathleen A. Marchione (R,C-Halfmoon) today announced the State Senate's passage of the 2013-14 State Budget and said the on time spending plan is a balanced approach that keeps state government spending growth below two percent, provides targeted tax relief for families and small businesses, increases funding for local schools and invests in job creation.

"I am proud that my first State Budget passed the Senate on time. I am prouder still that in the midst of a tough economy, and very trying fiscal circumstances, we delivered a responsible State Budget that controls spending, provides real tax relief for families and small businesses, increases funding for schools, promotes and strengthens our agricultural sector, encourages the hiring of veterans, invests in job creation and successfully closes a $1.3 billion budget deficit," Senator Marchione said.

"I was honored to have helped secure funding to continue, and expand, an important program that is helping veterans in Rensselaer and Saratoga counties – the PFC Joseph Dwyer PTSD Peer-to-Peer Veterans Counseling program – along with securing monies that will support local tourism and promote economic development through the Historic Saratoga-Washington on the Hudson Partnership. These local initiatives will have a positive impact on our community and I was proud to fight and advocate for them throughout the budget process," Senator Marchione stated.
