Tavern on the Green was originally known as the sheepfold in Central Park as it was the home to approximately 200 sheep. In 1934, it was converted to a restaurant and Tavern on the Green was born. The restaurant spent years as a New York City icon, until it was shut down in December of 2009. The ribbon cutting marks the first time the doors will be open to the public in 4 years.

"I am delighted and honored to be a part of New York City history by standing here today and unveiling the new Tavern on the Green. I'm so proud to represent Central Park and this iconic restaurant in my Senate District, as both are big parts of the cultural landscape of New York City. As we head toward another record-breaking year for tourism in our city, my hope is that the new Tavern on the Green will be at the top of the list," said Serrano.
