Marching in Solidarity with Occupy Wall Street

THOMAS K. DUANE November 2, 2011

I encourage you to consider participating in END TO END FOR THE 99%, a November 7 solidarity march from Uptown Manhattan along Broadway to Zucotti Park, where we will join the Occupy Wall Street protest. The march is leaving 181st Street and St. Nicholas at 10:30 A.M. and is expected to pass through Verdi Square at 72nd Street and Broadway at approximately 1:30 P.M. and Union Square at 14th Street and Broadway at approximately 3:00 P.M. People who live or work in the area are encouraged to meet up and join the march there. Participants should feel free to march part of the way and take a bus or subway down to Zucotti Park at any point. The march has been organized by the Working Families Party, SEIU Local 32BJ, TWU Local 100, CWA, La Fuente NYCPP, United NY, local elected officials and more. Please see the attached flyer for more information and share it with anyone who might be interested in participating. Please see the flyers below for more details about meeting up with the march at Verdi Square or Union Square.
