On Friday, I had the privilege to speak at a ceremony in which Hillside Family of Agencies unveiled its $22 million renovated Monroe Avenue campus. Funding for the renovation was raised from private donors and funders and through numerous campaigns over more than a decade. Renovations include six renovated residential buildings, the new Horton Family Center, a renovated Eastman Hall, a new common area, a new baseball field, track and playground, and one of the cottages now allows for residential services for eight youth with developmental disabilities.
