SIGN UP FOR CONSUMER SAFETY ALERTS

CHARLES J. FUSCHILLO JR. June 25, 2013

| ISSUE: CONSUMER PROTECTION

Many different types of products, from children's toys and baby products to appliances, are recalled for safety reasons. Fortunately, there is an easy way to keep track of these products so that you can keep your family safe.

The United States Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) allows consumers to view listings of product recalls. Recalls can be searched by company name or product type (toys, baby and child items, home and garden, etc.). You can also sign up to receive email alerts about product recalls.

In addition, you can also report products you believe to be unsafe to the CPSC.

Click below to take advantage of these services from the CPSC.
