

NEW YORK STATE SENATOR

Patrick M. Gallivan

Senate Passes Bill to Make It a Crime to Incite Violence Against Police Officers

JIM RANNEY March 2, 2016

| ISSUE: POLICE, CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Senator Patrick M. Gallivan, (R-C-I, Elma) says the New York State Senate has passed legislation (S5598) that would establish the new crime of inciting violence against a police officer. In recent years, there has been an increase in violent crimes committed against police officers and this measure would help prevent individuals from deliberately inciting violence targeting law enforcement by creating a new class D felony.

“Police officers put their lives on the line every day to protect our communities,” Gallivan said. “We need to do all we can to ensure their safety and make sure there are adequate laws on the books to punish those who would target law enforcement.”

Gallivan, a former State Trooper and Sheriff of Erie County, co-sponsored the bill in the Senate. The legislation is a result of the input received during a series of public hearings held by the Senate Majority last year which examined police safety and public protection in New York City and throughout the state.

The bill will be sent to the Assembly.

-30-

RELATED LEGISLATION

2015-S5598

- Introduced

- ◦ In Committee Assembly
 - In Committee Senate

- ◦ On Floor Calendar Assembly
 - On Floor Calendar Senate

- ○ Passed Assembly
 - Passed Senate
- Delivered to Governor
- Signed By Governor
-

Relates to inciting violence against a police officer

May 18, 2015

In Assembly Committee

Sponsored by Michael F. Nozzolio

Do you support this bill?