

NEW YORK STATE SENATOR

Thomas F. O'Mara

Watch Sen. O'Mara at the Legislature's recent Joint Public Hearing on Water Quality and Contamination ~ Highlights new law to require testing for lead in school drinking water as an example of how legislative process can and should work better

THOMAS F. O'MARA September 13, 2016

| ISSUE: SCHOOL DRINKING WATER QUALITY

The action is being widely praised and viewed as a landmark, first-in-the-nation action to better protect children.

Albany, N.Y.--State Senator Tom O'Mara (R,C,I-Big Flats), Chairman of the Senate Environmental Conservation Committee, recently questioned state Health Department

(DOH) Commissioner Howard Zucker at the Legislature's Joint Public Hearing on Water Quality and Contamination

In particular, O'Mara highlighted DOH's swift adoption of regulations to implement a recently enacted state law sponsored by O'Mara and Southern Tier Assemblywoman Donna Lupardo (D-Endwell) requiring schools to test their drinking water systems for lead contamination.

That action is being widely praised and viewed as a landmark, first-in-the-nation action to better protect children and an example of how the state's legislative process can and should work better to address critical challenges and crises.

Watch the video HERE.