Senator Serrano was proud to march in the 40th annual Three Kings Day Parade. The parade, hosted every year by El Museo del Barrio, is East Harlem's spectacular way of celebrating the twelfth day of Christmas. Community members, elected officials and children gathered around to enjoy the live camels, puppets, music and dancing at this exciting event.

“Cultural celebrations like the Three Kings Day Parade are so important, especially for our younger generations. I’d like to congratulate the individuals that were honored today for their contributions to the Latino community, your hard work has not gone unnoticed. I'd also like to thank El Museo del Barrio for allowing me to be a part of such a cultural and religious celebration."
