Parker says “Raise The Age” New York State

| ISSUE: RAISE THE AGE

Brooklyn, New York (2-14-17) - Yesterday, State Senator Kevin Parker and the Senate Democratic Conference urged the Republican and Independent Democratic Conference Coalition to advance real and meaningful legislation to raise the age of criminal responsibility in New York State. “Prosecuting all youth as adults when they turn 16 years old is an unreasonable and counterproductive practice,” stated Senator Parker.

The proposed legislation, Senate Bill 4121 sponsored since 2012 by Senator Velmanette Montgomery, would Raise The Age for youth offenders from 16 to 18, and move adolescent cases from Criminal Court to Family Court where there are more age appropriate resources available for minors. “I am proud to be a co-sponsor of Senator Montgomery’s vital piece of legislation that not only protects youth in communities of color who are hyper-policed and disproportionately arrested at higher rates, but also begins to reverse the discriminatory and ineffective practice that plagues these same communities. This money could be better spent on our schools, roads, or creating opportunities for struggling families in our State,” concluded the Brooklyn lawmaker.

New York State is one of only two states that still prosecute children who are 16 and 17-year-olds as adults. To learn more about Raise the Age legislation (S4121), visit <https://www.nysenate.gov/legislation/bills/2017/S4121>.
