| ISSUE: CONSUMER PROTECTION, SENIOR CITIZENS

Senator Elaine Phillips (R-Manhasset) recently sponsored a senior scam prevention program in New Hyde Park to help local seniors protect themselves from scams, fraud and identity theft. The program was held at the Hillside Library.

Approximately 50 local seniors took part in the program, which featured presentations from the New York State's Department of State's Division of Consumer Protection and LiveOn

NY. Seniors learned about many of the scams which target the elderly, along with important steps they can take to avoid becoming a victim.

Seniors who could not attend the program but would like information about consumer protection safety tips can call Senator Phillips' office at 516-746-5924 or visit Senator Phillips' website, phillips.nysenate.gov, and click on the "Senior Scam Prevention" link on the homepage.
