

NEW YORK STATE SENATOR

John A. DeFrancisco

Preventing Lyme and Tick-Borne Diseases

JOHN A. DEFRANCISCO May 12, 2017

| ISSUE: LYME AND TICK-BORNE DISEASES

During the past few years, New York State has seen an increase in reported incidents of Lyme and tick-borne diseases in both humans and animals. As your State Senator, it is important to make information about this public health issue available to my constituents.

My office has a free New York State Senate brochure on Lyme and other tick-borne diseases, which contains important facts about preventing and identifying these deadly illnesses to help safeguard the health of individuals and families. To access this brochure, please click on the pdf file above.

If your school, community group, or family would like copies of this brochure, please feel free to contact my district office at (315) 428-7632 to order some copies.
