TODD KAMINSKY October 4, 2017

| ISSUE: DISASTER RELIEF EFFORT

Senator Todd Kaminsky announced that his office will serve as a collection point for supplies to benefit the Hurricane Maria relief effort. The Senator is partnering with Long Island Cares, who will ship the collected goods to Puerto Rico.

“My office is collecting supplies to help those who are still suffering from Hurricane Maria in Puerto Rico,” said Senator Todd Kaminsky. “Providing these items will help our friends in need and I look forward to continuing to work with Long Island Cares on this initiative. Every donation counts and will make a big impact.”

Donations of non-perishable food, bottled water, diapers, baby food, batteries, tampons and pads, and first aid supplies, can be accepted at the Senator's district office. All items must be unused and in their original, unopened packaging. The office also set-up a virtual store where people can go online to purchase which will automatically be sent to Long Island Cares and then to Puerto Rico through the online store here.

Donations will be accepted through October, and can be dropped off at Senator Kaminsky's district office, located at 55 Front Street in Rockville Centre.
