A New York State correction officer performs an admirable public service and plays a vital, indispensable role within our correctional facilities.

Elmira, N.Y., November 13—State Senator Tom O'Mara (R-C, Big Flats) reminded area residents today that the New York State Department of Corrections and Community Supervision (DOCCS) is currently undertaking a statewide correction officer recruitment effort.

A state Civil Service examination to fill new positions has been scheduled for February 3, 2018. Anyone interested in taking the exam must file an application by Wednesday, December 13, 2017.

“A New York State correction officer performs an admirable public service and plays a vital, indispensable role within our correctional facilities. It’s a difficult, demanding and sometimes dangerous occupation, but it has provided a meaningful and worthwhile livelihood for thousands of New Yorkers,” said O’Mara. “New York State’s correction officers are among our bravest, most dedicated, respected and valuable public servants.”

According to DOCCS, a correction officer trainee’s starting salary is currently $40,590 annually. The salary increases to $42,695 after six months. Following the successful completion of a one-year traineeship, the salary increases to $48,889 per year.

O’Mara said that interested applicants must be at least 21 years old, a high school graduate or have a high school equivalency diploma, a United States citizen, and, at the time of appointment, a resident of New York State.

Correction Officers fill the majority of the jobs within DOCCS. In addition to passing the written Civil Service examination, applicants must undergo extensive medical, psychological and background reviews. The positions are located throughout New York State in the department’s various facilities where officers are responsible for the custody, security, and safety of inmates.

O’Mara said that interested applicants can apply on-line or download examination information and applications at the state Department of Civil Service website:
