Senator Joins Women & Children's Hospital of Buffalo President and Local Volunteers to Kick Off Drive with Blanket Making Party at Resurgence Brewing Company

Western New York Stepped Up in a Big Way Last Year, Collecting Nearly 4,000 Blankets to Help Ease Anxiety of Hospital Stays and Provide Comfort to Patients During Winter Months

BUFFALO, NY – Senator Tim Kennedy (D-Buffalo) joined Women & Children's Hospital of Buffalo (WCHOB) President Allegra Jaros, along with local community and government leaders Tuesday night to launch #WarmUpWNY, a blanket drive designed to bring the comforts of home to our region's youngest patients during hospital stays. Now in its second year, the initiative began after the Senator learned that simple items like warm blankets and socks can bring much-needed comfort to pediatric patients, but are not a reimbursable expense for the hospital. Due to the high volume of young patients these facilities see every day, keeping the supply of donated blankets stocked is often difficult, which is why Kennedy, and the community, decided to step in. To kickoff this year's drive, Kennedy hosted a 'Blankets and Brews' party, encouraging volunteers to come out and make or donate blankets at Resurgence Brewery.

“Wrapping a scared child with a warm and fuzzy blanket can often immediately put them at ease, helping them to find some peace and comfort during what may be the scariest time of their lives. Last year, the City of Good Neighbors lived up to its name tenfold, donating nearly 4,000 blankets to our drive in order to bring warmth and comfort to patients at Women & Children’s Hospital of Buffalo and HighPointe on Michigan,” said Senator Tim Kennedy. “This year, as we partner with Kaleida Health and our many other local and elected partners to launch our drive once again, we’re hoping to break that record. I encourage the Buffalo region to join us as we Warm Up Western New York’s littlest patients by donating unused blankets for the children in our community who are spending time at the hospital this winter season.”

“We are grateful to Senator Tim Kennedy, Mayor Byron Brown, our elected officials and the entire Western New York community for their unwavering support of our efforts to provide the highest quality care for our patients and their families,” said Allegra Jaros, President, Women & Children’s Hospital of Buffalo. “The WarmUpWNY initiative relies on the generosity and kindness of those in our community. With their help, we can provide children and families with the comforts of home throughout the year.”

According to doctors, nurses and parents, it’s common for young patients to become anxious over the unknown and unfamiliarity that a trip to the hospital can bring. They say that even the smallest and simplest item can remind kids of home and help to calm their nerves. The drive will coincide with the transition to the new John R. Oishei Children’s Hospital, as well as the Healing Arts Initiative, which aims to provide pediatric patients and families with a physical, mental and emotional healing experience through integrated cultural collaboration and programming.

New or homemade blankets can be dropped off at the following collection sites through February 1st:
