State Senator Patty Ritchie is encouraging seniors throughout Jefferson, Oswego and St. Lawrence Counties to mark their calendars for her annual Senior Health and Wellness Fairs.

Taking place in October, the free events—which are being cohosted by the Fort Drum Regional Health Planning Organization (FDRHPO)—will feature various exhibitors offering health screenings, wellness tips, flu shots (available with your Medicare or insurance ID), live entertainment and more. In addition, attendees will also receive a free lunch prepared by local BOCES students.

“The key to a long, healthy life is being proactive and knowing what steps you can take to improve your well-being as you age,” said Senator Patty Ritchie. “Through these annual events, our region’s aging population will be able to speak with providers, receive screenings and tap into wellness resources. I’m looking forward to welcoming seniors to these free events, and providing them with opportunities to improve their health.”
