TAX INFORMATION

FOR SMALL BUSINESS OWNERS

Do you know everything about the changes to tax law in 2018? This FREE IRS Seminar will address tax changes President Trump signed into law. This law reduces tax rates for some individuals and corporations and repeals many deductions, thus simplifying filing for some taxpayers.

(Brooklyn, New York) Senator Roxanne J. Persaud in partnership with the Internal Revenue Service(IRS) and Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a Tax Information Seminar for Small Business Owners. This event will take place October 3, 2018, at 9 AM.

This FREE Seminar will address the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act that President Trump signed into law on December 22, 2017. Arguably the most significant change to the Internal Revenue Code in decades, the law reduces tax rates for individuals and corporations and repeals many deductions, thus simplifying filing for many taxpayers.

"Small Businesses need and deserve access to information in a timely manner. This is a proactive and cost-effective approach to assist small business owners to prepare to make the necessary adjustments. I want to ensure that we limit the barriers to the success of businesses in our community so that they can grow and expand." Senator Persaud said.

Participants must register at the link provided (<http://bit.ly/SD19TaxInfo>) or call the district office 718 649 7653.

The seminar will be presented by experts in the field that are affiliated with the IRS.
