

NEW YORK STATE SENATOR

Joseph P. Addabbo Jr.

Get a free smoke alarm through American Red Cross campaign

SENATOR JOSEPH P. ADDABBO, JR. January 28, 2019

| ISSUE: FIRE SAFETY, AMERICAN RED CROSS, SMOKE ALARMS, ADDABBO

After meeting with members of the American Red Cross, State Senator Joseph P. Addabbo, Jr. is teaming up with the organization to bring free smoke alarm installations to his Senate District.

Every day, seven people die in a home fire, and the American Red Cross' Sound the Alarm Campaign aims to reduce those numbers by installing 100,000 free smoke alarms throughout the United States.

“Learning that there are seven people who die each day due to home fires was really eye opening for me,” Addabbo said. “To be able to join the American Red Cross for their Sound the Alarm Campaign and bring free smoke alarms to my constituents will hopefully save lives from a needless tragedy.”

If you would like register for a free smoke alarm installation, visit

<http://goo.gl/forms/5ThSc0BY5o> to select a date, time, and make an appointment.