| ISSUE: NY STATE SENATE EMPIRE BUSINESS AWARD

ROME – State Sen. Joseph Griffo, R-I-C-Rome, recently presented New York State Senate Empire Awards to Varflex Corporation and Bartell Machinery Systems, both headquartered in Rome. The award recognizes excellence in business.

“It was a pleasure to present these awards to Varflex Corporation and Bartell Machinery Systems,” Sen. Griffo said. “Both of these businesses are thriving companies and leaders in their industry that create jobs, help to spur economic growth and make significant contributions that positively affect the community and the state.”

Varflex Corporation has been manufacturing electrical insulating sleeveings since its founding on May 24, 1924. Through the years, the company has designed and manufactured a variety of sleeving and related insulating products that are used in a variety of commercial and industrial electrical applications.
