YONKERS, NY – On Thursday, August 15, Senate Majority Leader Andrea Stewart-Cousins and State Senator Shelley B. Mayer held a Town Hall at Yonkers Riverfront Library to share the achievements and challenges of the 2019 Legislative Session. Nearly 100 attendees had the opportunity to hear from the State Senators about laws passed this year in Albany and how they will impact Westchester communities.

Local residents shared their support of and concerns for a wide range of issues including:

Education

Environmental conservation

Criminal justice reform

Health care

Immigrant rights

Election law reforms

Animal welfare and rights

Despite a busy schedule, Leader Stewart-Cousins believes these Town Halls are vital. “I am honored to represent my Westchester constituents. Even with all of the technology increasingly available, there is no substitute for face-to-face meetings with the people whom I’m privileged to serve. My constituents are my number one priority, and I look forward to returning to Albany to fight for our most important shared values,” said Leader Stewart-Cousins.

State Senator Shelley B. Mayer (D-Westchester) said, “I am glad to co-host a series of Town Halls throughout Westchester with my dear friend and colleague, Majority Leader Andrea Stewart-Cousins. The new State Senate Majority Conference led one of the most progressive and productive legislative sessions in state history, and it’s important to meet face to face with my constituents and discuss what we were able to get done and to hear from them about priorities for the upcoming session.”

Together with their colleagues, Leader Stewart-Cousins and Senator Mayer were able to deliver historic reforms that New Yorkers had been demanding for years, including tougher gun laws, affordable housing and tenant protections, voting and ethics reforms, action on climate change, and stronger protections for women’s rights.

Last week's Yonkers Town Hall kicked off Leader Stewart-Cousins' series of Town Halls, the next of which will take place on Thursday, September 12, 2019 at the Remington Boys & Girls Club in New Rochelle.
