"We made the call for needed Personal Protection Equipment in Rockland and Westchester Counties for our front line health care professionals, and then Northeast Face Shield Project reached out immediately," said Senator David Carlucci. "They asked who was in need, and we connected them with Good Samaritan, and in a short time the PPE was here. The Northeast Face Shield Project's work is critical in protecting our health care professionals from COVID-19. This project is run by volunteers and people using technology to help their fellow New Yorkers in our greatest time of need. We thank the group for their selfless donation."

The Northeast Face Shield Project is a non-profit organization of more than 150 volunteers who produce and distribute up to 20,000 3D printed face shields per month, across 9 northeastern states. Volunteers 3D print face shield parts, procure related supplies, collect, prepare, and distribute the face shields to health care facilities throughout the Northeast.

Adam Kaufman, Northeast Face Shield Project's Regional NY, NJ, PA Coordinator said, "Face shields are desperately needed by health care workers who are fighting on the front lines to save the lives of others. We are grateful to Senator Carlucci for connecting us with Good Samaritan Hospital, and we were excited to make this delivery. Moving forward, we want to do more and attain State funding to produce a great number of face shields and bring costs down. We are also seeking volunteers who want to make a difference."

The Northeast Face Shield Project is in need of more 3D printing volunteers and donations to continue their life-saving work.

If New Yorkers would like to volunteer, they can go to: www.nefaceshield.org. The non-profit's go fund me page is: <https://www.gofundme.com/f/nefaceshioldorg>.

Kaufman said, "Each face shield costs roughly $2 to produce and distribute, so even small donations make a big difference."
