NEW YORK CITY NEEDS YOU TO GET COUNTED!

What is the census?

The census counts every person living in the United States.
It only happens every ten years.

The census determines:

- Hundreds of billions in federal funds for public education, healthcare, affordable housing, infrastructure, and more.
- The number of seats New York has in Congress.
- How we make important decisions about local policy, emergency services, transportation, healthcare, and more, based on accurate data.

THE CENSUS IMPACTS OUR FAIR SHARE OF HUNDREDS OF BILLIONS FOR:

- The Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP), education and afterschool programs, including for children with special needs and those in low-income households.
- Adult education, job training programs, including priority services for veterans, foreign-born, disabled, and justice-involved New Yorkers.
- Senior center upgrades and programming, including meals.
- Affordable housing assistance (Section 8), maintenance, repairs and improvements.

That's why we need all New Yorkers to get counted.

When you respond to the census, you shape the future of our communities.

In 2010, only 62% of New Yorkers self-responded to the census, way below the 76% national average.

If more New Yorkers respond in 2020, we would see more money for our schools, for healthcare, and for the programs and services we rely on every day.
