Senator Helming Tells State to Step Up on School Reopening

PAMELA HELMING March 8, 2021

Our students deserve better.
Help our schools reopen.

Senator Helming has released the following statement regarding her ongoing push for 5-day school reopening.

“At the February 25 health budget hearing, Health Commissioner Dr. Howard Zucker was asked about school reopening guidance. He said he hoped to have more information by the following week. He called it a ‘high priority’ and said his department was working on this. Yet here we are, and nothing from the state health department or the Governor, who as recently as March 3, talked about the need to return students to in-class learning.

There is confusion about the current state guidance as well as who has the authority on this. The state has created this confusion. The state health department must take immediate action to provide schools with clear guidance and certainty.

The schools in my district overwhelmingly want to get students back in class five days a week. The ball is in the state's court. Issue clear guidance that everyone can understand and help get our students back in school, where they belong.

The Governor never hesitates to issue directives telling people what to do. And now, thanks to Senate Democrats who pushed through Friday's so-called emergency powers bill, his authority to do so continues. So Governor and Dr. Zucker, will you help our schools reopen or not?"
