SENATOR JOSEPH P. ADDABBO, JR. May 4, 2021

| ISSUE: TEACHERS, TEACHER APPRECIATION, ADDABBO

Teacher Appreciation Week officially kicked off on Monday, May 3, and today, May 4, is known as Teacher Appreciation Day. This week is a time when we honor all the teachers in our lives and thank them for their tireless work all year long. Teachers take on an immense responsibility, helping to guide the future generations, and instill them with the skills and knowledge they will need to become successful members of society.

Over the last year, teachers had to adjust their professional skills due to the COVID pandemic, all for the benefit of our students, and we cannot thank them enough for their efforts during this difficult time. I wish all the best to all of our teachers this Teacher Appreciation Week!
