With indoor mandates being lifted and COVID numbers trending down Queens Public Libraries have once again opened their branches for in-person programming, and State Senator Joseph P. Addabbo, Jr. has revived his popular Mobile Office Hours events this year.

By holding these Mobile Office Hours events at different libraries throughout his Senate district, Addabbo makes it more convenient for constituents to come to him at a time that is easier for them and a site right in their own community.

“I am so pleased to be able to bring back these Mobile Office Hours events to our local library branches,” Addabbo said. “These events allow constituents who cannot visit my three district offices during regular business hours to get some time with me to bring up any matters they wish to discuss. It is a great way for an elected official to hear directly from the people they represent.”

Addabbo is scheduled to be at these libraries on the dates listed from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.

- Thursday, April 14

Howard Beach Library, located at 92-06 156 Avenue

- Thursday, April 28

Middle Village Library, located at 72-31 Metropolitan Avenue

- Thursday, May 12

South Ozone Park Library, located at 128-16 Rockaway Boulevard

- Thursday, May 19

Peninsula Library, located at 92-25 Rockaway Beach Boulevard

- Thursday, June 16

Rego Park Library, located at 91-41 63 Drive

“I want to thank Queens Public Library for allowing me to host these events in their spaces yet again,” Addabbo added. “I hope to see many constituents visit me in their neighborhood at these popular events.”

Additional Mobile Office Hours events are being planned for more locations throughout Addabbo’s district. If you have any questions about these events, contact Addabbo’s office at 718-738-1111.
