SHELLEY B. MAYER June 9, 2022

(Albany, NY) – New York State Senator Shelley B. Mayer today announced 35 bills she sponsored in the Senate passed both houses of the legislature during the 2022 legislative session. Of those bills, five have already been signed by the Governor, and five were included in the enacted New York State Budget in April. In addition to many other major pieces of legislation which she co-sponsored, including those addressing gun violence and civil rights, Mayer helped achieve major education gains during the negotiation of the NYS 2022-2023 Fiscal Budget.

Senator Shelley B. Mayer said: “Working with my colleagues under the leadership of Majority Leader Andrea Stewart-Cousins, we were able to pass substantive bills that impact the daily lives of New Yorkers. I was pleased to co-sponsor many of the major bills we passed, including bills to prevent gun violence, strengthen reproductive rights, and build on our commitment to funding and strengthening education. We also passed bills that are especially important to my district, including bills to address flood resiliency, protect the disabled, and benefit consumers. I am incredibly proud of the work we have done this session.”
