

Water Quality Roundtable
October 24th, 2018
Starkey's Lookout, Dundee, New York

From the Beacon Institute for Rivers and Estuaries (BIRE):

Michelle Crimi, Professor/Director of Engineering and Management

Shane Rogers, Associate Professor, Civil and Environmental Engineering, Clarkson University

Mike Walsh, Interim President/Executive Director, Engineering & Management

Tom Langen, Chair, Department of Biology, Clarkson University

Weiming Wu, PhD, Professor of Water Engineering, Clarkson University

From Cornell University and Cornell Cooperative Extension:

Dr. M. Todd Walter, Director, NYS Water Resources Institute, Department of Biological & Environmental Engineering, Cornell University

Brian G. Rahm, Research Associate, NYS Water Resources Institute, Department of Biological & Environmental Engineering, Cornell University

Dr. Quirine Ketterings, Cornell University Nutrient Management Program

Melissa Foley, Program Manager, Cornell Local Roads Program

Phil Cherry, Executive Director, Schuyler County Cornell Cooperative Extension

Arlene Wilson, Executive Director, Yates County Cornell Cooperative Extension

Laura Bailey, Natural Resource/Watershed/Invasive Species Educator, Yates County Cornell Cooperative Extension

Colby Petersen, District Manager, Yates County Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD)

Katie Cappiello, Water Resource Technician, Ontario County SWCD

Jeff Parker, District Manager, Steuben County SWCD

Dennis Carlson, President, Keuka Lake Association

Nancy Feinstein, Director, Keuka Lake Association

John Socha, Seneca Lake Pure Waters

Lisa B Cleckner, PhD, MBA, Director, Finger Lakes Institute, Hobart and William Smith Colleges

John Halfman, Professor of Geolimnology and Hydrogeochemistry, Hobart and William Smith Colleges, Finger Lakes Institute Endowed Chair in Environmental Studies

Lindsay Wickham, New York Farm Bureau, Senior Field Advisor for Broome, Chemung, Chenango, Schuyler, Tioga, Tompkins, and Yates Counties