

Little sisters

It's hard having three little sisters that want to play with you all the time when your doing homework they always asked me "wanna play Barbie's" I said "I'm to big for that " they played by themselves they would always think I didn't love them because I didn't play with them even though I loved them with all my heart then in a blink of an eye they were all grown up .they didn't want to play Barbie's or play tag or hide and seek.All they wanted to do was play on there phones and tablets .I regret not playing with them when they were little girls. I miss the memories we had together in the past I wish I could go back time and play with them I regret saying no .
