Thanks giving reminds me of all the people and things I'm thankful for. I appreciate my home, family, and friends.

I'm especially thankful for my family because they look after me. For example they always have my back. Another example they love me. This shows they care about me.

I also appreciate my home because it gives me shelter. For example I can't get wet in the rain. Another example is I can be clean. This is why I love my home.

Finally, I'm grateful for friends because they help me. For example, they make me laugh when I'm sad. Another example is they encourage me when I have tests. This is why I'm grateful for my friends.

As I enjoy this holiday I realize that I have many reasons to be thankful for. A home, family, and friends are just a few of the blessings in my life.
