

Winter's morning light, spilled softly, chilled and dim.
Whispered walks in gentle breeze, empty streets filled with laughter-
These simple joys, with stars above that began to show seem blessings from the winter's snow.
Moments made end in ease with change.

-Jackson Strickland