My Thanksgiving Story

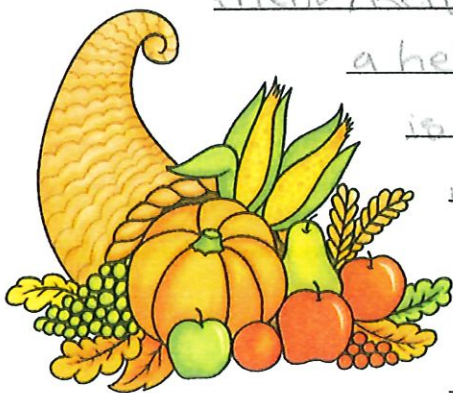

By: Kathryn Steinberger

In 1863 Abraham Lincoln made Thanksgiving an official holiday. Every year Thanksgiving is celebrated on the fourth Thursday of November. Every year my Cousins and close family members come to my house. We eat a big meal. Then we have dessert and play fun games. This year I am thankful for my family, my friends and Mazel Day School.

I am so grateful for my family. My dad helps me study for my tests. For example we are having a science test and he helped me study. I am also thankful for mom because she helps me with my homework and makes the best food. I am also grateful for my sisters because they are not judgy and they like to play Barbies with me. Finally I am grateful for my grand parents because my grandpa taught me how to ride a bike and my grandma pays the bills. Without them I would be nothing. This is why I am grateful for my family.

I am so grateful for my friends. My best friend Shayna always makes me laugh and smile. When I am sad Shayna's big smile always makes me wipe away my tears. I am also thankful for my other best friend, Keren because she is very funny and gives me a helping hand when I fall. My final best friend is Sarah because when people are bullying me she tells me not to worry and starts to walk away with me. This is why I am grateful for my friends.

Finally I am grateful for Mazel Day

School. It is where I met my amazing teachers and friends.

I am also grateful for school because it is where I learn and get smart. Finally, I like Mazel Day School because of its fun field trips. Last year on the way to the Jewish Children's Museum I sat with Keren and we sang tour the state and played with gold war cards. This is why I am thankful for Mazel Day School.

A very long time ago the president made Thanksgiving a new holiday. Every year Thanksgiving is remembered on the last Thursday of November. Every Thanksgiving my family eats a great big feast, then we have the best dessert and play hide and seek. This year I couldn't be more thankful for my family, my friends and Mazel Day School.
