

What I Cherish

By Trey Gambitta

I am thankful for three things. They are my family, my friends, and school.

Number one is school although it's a drag to get up in the morning and do a lot of work. I'm grateful to get to learn each day and to know that I have this opportunity that a lot of kids don't have. It's where I've made my best friends, which brings me into number two.

My friends are the best. They support me, they have fun, they are kind to my other friends, and I know they are always there for me. They make me laugh when I don't want them to, and they make me happy when I'm sad. They are like my family which brings me to my final cherished thing, my family.

I love my family. They are there for me, they are supportive, and they all love me and what I'm doing. That is the only thing I could ever ask for. My brothers I look up to, my sister I can talk to, and my parents are my biggest supporters. As you can see I'm very grateful even though I don't show it I mean it. These are things I cherish most about my life.
