Thankfulness

There are many qualities about me that I am thankful for. One quality that I am very thankful for is my creativity, especially when I draw because I love that I can make weird but also pretty drawings. Another quality that I am thankful for is honesty because I know sometimes the truth hurts, but I follow one rule that I made for myself: "honesty is the best policy". One very important one that I am so very thankful for is my confidence because I used to be afraid of what people always thought of me, but now I barely even care, now I know I'm just me. I would also say I'm thankful for my communication because I have come to think of myself as a pretty social person and I have gotten better at asking for help when I need it, instead of just staying confused. Lastly, I am thankful for my learning skills because I am doing pretty good in my classes and passing, so I'm pretty happy about that as well.
