The Most Important Things To Me

by Jacob Abramov

Abraham Lincoln made Thanksgiving an official holiday in 1863. The first Thanksgiving was three days long. I really like Thanksgiving. On Thanksgiving my family and I invite my uncle and aunt to celebrate. My mom always makes cranberry sauce that makes everyone's jaw drop out of amazement. Also the turkey makes everyone full right away because it's so delicious. I am super grateful for my family, basketball and structures.

I am thankful for my family and they are the light of my life. My mom is extra kind. She always makes yummy food and cleans the house. My dad is so caring. He helps to pay the bills and drives me to school. I absolutely love my older sister. She always tries to make me laugh by doing a funny dance or showing me a funny video. Also she taught me a lot of stuff like how to square a number in math. My baby sister is so understanding and thoughtful. When I am doing my homework and she wants to play with me I tell her "I am doing homework," and she understands that I can't play right now and she waits patiently.

My cousins are so joyful. They always have a smile on their face. Every time I see them they play with me and they are ok with what I want to play with so we don't have any arguments.

I am super thankful for my passion of basketball. My love for basketball has given me beautiful memories. It also has made me healthier because of the increase in my physical activities. Additionally, it improved my mental health by improving my memory functioning and reducing my stress. Basketball has also helped me make new friends. These are all the reasons I am grateful to the sport basketball.

I am thankful for my body parts because without them I can't function. I am thankful for my feet because with them I can walk, stand, jump and play sports. I appreciate my head because it is a very smart brain. I am grateful for my lungs. They help me breathe. Finally, I am thankful for my kind and caring heart.

Family, basketball and structures are unspeakable miracles in my life. As I enjoy this wonderful holiday season I realize that there are many more things to be thankful for in life than I thought.
