

Hi, my name is Zoey Agnew and I have lived in Westport, NY my whole life. Three traits that I have that I am thankful for is that I am funny, caring, and smart. I think that these traits can help me in the future when I'm older. A few hobbies I have are western horseback riding, English horseback riding, and playing football. I think all these hobbies can help me when I'm older too.

I'm thankful for being caring because if I'm caring I will have a lot more friends and I can get a really good job. If I get a good job, I would have a lot of money to provide for my family. I want to be a veterinarian when I grow up because I love animals. Dogs will come in the most because they are the best house animal and so are cats. I will have to care for the animals and their owners.

A few reasons why I am thankful for being smart is because that means that I have a good memory so I know what things are quickly. That helps me know what I'm doing and how to do it. Also, if you want to do a good job, you will have to know where your stuff is. Also, at some point, you need to be smart for a good job.

One reason I am thankful for being funny is because if you have a sad client you want to make them happy. If you have a sad coworker you would want to make them happy too. You feel so much better after making someone happy. When you make people happy it kind of makes you a better person and it makes you happy too.

I have many traits that I am proud of. The ones listed above are the ones I am most proud of. I am thankful for being caring, funny, and smart. These traits not only help me now, but they'll help me in the future. Thank you for reading my essay.
