In the life that I've lived so far, there are many things that I am thankful for. For example, I'm very thankful for my Mom and Dad because without them I wouldn't exist. I'm very thankful for my Mom because she provides the food and water for my survival and my Grandpa for providing a house for me to live. Without the People that employed my parents and grandparents then I wouldn't have the money to have clothes food or anything. My whole family plays a big part of this. If there was no support then we wouldn't really get anything in our lives. Last, but not least my friends that support me. My friends boost my confidence. Whenever I'm in a bad mood they cheer me up so I think that they play a big part in what I'm thankful for. Therefore, I think that my whole family is something worth being thankful for and my close friends.
