

A thankful letter to all the people I care about friends and family that care about be love me for who I am, treat me with respect, guide me through the right path, show their support, help me, I appreciate all my family and friends, I appreciate all who have done for me, all who have supported me since I was born in and this thankful essay I will explain what people and things have done for me. My parents have been there since I was born; my parents put money in my pocket every day, provide a roof over my head, and put food in my stomach. My family has been providing me since I was born. My family is always there for to make sure I got everything I need, make sure I'm okay. Anytime I would need to talk to somebody my family is there to listen. My family make sure I do the right thing they want me to be something in life. My family will always show their support no matter what it is. I have been through a lot with friends losing friends left to right but the ones who stayed I am truly thankful for they have never crossed me never had me to ever questioned their loyalty against me. Anytime I need a shoulder to cry on my friends are there to cheer me up and put and smile on my face, help me with my school work. The friends that I have now are my real friends and I'm thankful they stood by my side for now. I will always look up to my family, my family will always be there and I am grateful for the family I got. Friends come and go not saying my friends would stay but I know my friends never left. Family and friends are the true definition of supporters no matter what the situation is they help you go through it you're not alone. This essay dedicates who and why I'm thankful for my friends and family. Family is my blood in shall ever be love and thankful for. People who give you I was always be thankful for to and shall never be forgotten.