

Thanksgiving Thankful Essay

Thanksgiving is a time of year to reminisce on everything we are thankful for. I am thankful for many things, including my family, my friends, and my education. These things have made me who I am today.

My family has helped me through some very tough times. That is why I am grateful to have them around every day and night. They feed and care for me and my sister with every chance they get. They always take the time to sit down and help us with our problems and they always care for us. Overall, my family is the best family I can think of.

My friends have shaped my life and have filled it with great memories and experiences. They have always helped me and cared about me over the years. If something was going on at my house or in the school they were there to help me out. They always support me when I need it. I've known them for a while and they've known me for a while too. I am so thankful to have them around at every turn.

The school and teachers have also shaped my life putting me in a good position for the future. The teachers and principals have helped me through some tough situations. They gave me a good view of the world around me and allowed me to figure out how to buy things I need like a food. No matter what happens the teachers never turn away from your issues. They help you fix them and make them better. The school has given me a good education and they helped me through some tough times.

My family, my friends and my education are all a big part of my life and have shaped it to what it is today. Everyday I learn something new from the school and my family. My friends help me and I help them whenever and wherever I can. Everything I know has been taught to me by my family, friends, and the teachers and other people involved with my education. I'm in good hands wherever I go and I know that even in the future whenever my life gets hard and I run into some rough territory, I know that everyone will help me out of that situation. My life would not be anywhere near as great if all of these things and people weren't here.
