

I am very thankful for waking up each morning alive. I am also grateful to live in a country where they allow their citizens to have many freedoms, because there are people who give their life up just so we could have them. Another reason I have to be appreciative for is that I don't have to go a single night hungry. I also am appreciative for not having to do much, and being able to have a free spirit and being able to pursue my dreams. I am thankful to have everything I need and having freetime.
